President Quarrier Has Decided to Call a Meeting of

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Committees to Arrange for the Atfair Will be Appointed-Mr. Quarrier's Match Horse Race Suggestion has Been Well Received, and Will Likely be Arranged for.

Mr. H. C. Meyer, has been circulating the petition in the business district, asking the chamber of commerce offi cials to call a meeting of that body and business men generally, at which to arrange for a Merchants' Day in connection with the coming state fair, yester their conference resulted in Mr. Quarrier consenting to issue the desired call for next Tuesday evening, August 8, at 8 o'clock, in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, Hub building. The call for the meeting will be sent out on day afternoon called on President Hul-Monday.

At this meeting it is hoped that a large and representative attendance may be had. There is not overmuch time in which to make arrangements on a scale that will attract the desired large number of retailers from the tri-state radius, but a long pull and a strong pull and a pull altogether is all that is necessary to make the coming Merchants' Day at the fair a record breaker in attendance.

The suggestion of Mr. Quarrier that the Merchants' Day afternoon attrac-tion be a match race between John R. Gentry and Star Pointer or Joe Patchen, mention of which was made in yesterday's Intelligencer, was redoubtless the Merchants' Day commit tees in conjunction with the state fair management will arrange for this desirable feature. Secretary George Hook, of the fair association, when seen by an Intelligencer man, said that such a race is entirely feasible; that two of the three "Kings of the Turf" can be se-cured at a figure within the reach of the mmittee, and he agrees with Mr. Quarrier that a race of this kind would make Merchants' Day at the fair the started out by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company, under the direction of Chief Engineer W. T. Manning, of the Pittsburgh & Akron. The survey complete, and then extensive improvements, costing several million dollars are contemplated. It is the intention to bring the standard of the Pittsburgh & Western up to that of the recently improved Baltimore & Ohio, and place it in a position to more successfully compete with other lines to the lakes.

At present eastern passenger rates are in a bad condition. The Chicago-St. Paul roads are held responsible for the trouble. Most of the eastern men accuse the western roads of providing ticket brokers in the east with the reticket brokers in the east with the return coupon portions of excursion tickets, the sale of which they claim not to be able to keep pace with. The Central passenger association roads are worrying over the condition of affairs, and it is said that they will endeavor to arrange matters so that the roads that are charged with being responsible for the demoralized state will be-made to stand a part, if not all, of the losses sustained by the eastern roads. The Chicago-St. Paul roads laugh at the accusations. They claim that their interests lie only in the business between this city and St. Paul.

Time Drawing Near.

Says the Cleveland Leader: The time is drawing near when the Wheeling & Lake Erie shall absorb the Cleveland, Canton & Southern and the of the offices running in good shape.

There are a few things that are purely matters of detail yet to be done, but these can be accomplished within the month. The court must be petitioned month. The court must be petitioned for an order releasing the property of the Cleveland & Canton from the courts, and ordering the master commissioner to turn it over to its new owners. It is thought that the petition for this will be filed within the next few days. Then the proper papers will be filed with the secretary of state at Columbus changing the capital stock of the Wheeling & Lake Erle to suit the new state of affairs. Then the matters of claims will have to be settled. There are a good many claims pending that will have to be met lay the Wheeling that will have to be met lay the Wheeling hefore it can take full control of the Cleveland, Canton & Southern. The road will be able to do this, for it has taken the obligation of the debts on its own shoulders and has arranged in its scheme of re-organization, for money enough to take care of all these obliga-The operation of these combined roads is now receiving a good deal of attention. It has been learned that the officers of the two roads will be practically the same as those who now preside over the Wheeling & Lake Erie, H. J. ## SAVAGE FILIPINOS

Surrounded Lighthouse and Starva tion Stared Spanish Keepers in the Face-Relieved by British Ship.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 4.-If the captain of the British ship Gloos-cap, now in port from the Philippines, ever undertakes to write a book of his adventures while on the long and eventful voyage which terminated yesterday, it would without a doubt discount all previous attempts of Clark Russell, in fact the entire category of the au-in fact the entire category of the authors of sea tales.

The course of the Glooscap after leaving Itolio was through the Sulu see toward the Balabac passage, the usual route pursued homeward bound vessels. Navigation through these intricate channels and among the maze of islands which go to make up that archipelago is very dangerous and dreaded by mariners the world over, as the bones of many a good ship which lies rotting on the sharp reefs bear silent witness to its peril. Not far from these waters the Earl of Hopeton, outward bound from Philadelphia, found her last resting place. Captain Watson approached the passage warily, taking no chances which might endanger the safety of the ship.

Toward sunset on the afternoon of Toward sunset on the afternoon of April 2 the lookout missed the light on Lape Meiville island. The captain's atention was called and the ship was topped.

Signals were distinguished on the ghthouse reading "we need assist-

There was no rapidity which characterizes its advent in tropical latitudes. There was no moon and it was very dark. Captain Watson and his officers were at a loss to understand the appeal for assistance displayed from the lighthouse and in view of the wild character of the country and its inhabitants he was reluctant to order a boat ashore during the night. Nevertheless after a consultation with his men, he found no lack of volunteers and the cutter was accordingly manned.

The lonely tower, at close range, was found to be situated on a low bluff, 100 yards from the sea. In the background was a high wooded country. There was no sign of life either in the building or its surroundings. The desolation was complete.

It was necessary to force open the local of the lighthouse.

The men were Spaniards and they told a terrible tale of privations endured during the past months.

In that time the little island was completely in the hands of the hostile Filipinos. The latter killed off all the Spanish soldiers and their soverignty was complete and undisputed. The isolated position of the lighthouse caused it to escape the attention of the rebels. In the meantime, however, provisions began to run out and the situation of the unfortunate keepers became desper-

To the horror of Captain Watson further inquiry on his part revealed the fact that he men had been driven as a last resource to drink the nauseating oil used in the lamp. This had failed oil used in the lamp. This had falled them, too, which fact accounted for the beacon's being extinguished.

Captain Watson would have taken them on board the Glooscap, but after he had explained to them that temporary quiet had been established in that portion of the Islands, they decided to remain with their charge. They were furnished with a supply of provisions, but there was no oil which could be spared from the stores on the Glooscap.
The ship weighed anchor the following morning. On arrival at Batavia, Java, Captain Watson reported the incident to the British consul. The maiter has been referred to General Otts, the military governor of the Philippines. On board the Glooscap are five Philippine Islanders who took refuge thereon during the slege of Ilolio by the American army. One of these men, a modern Aeneas, carried his father from the blaxing city on his back. The old man, however, became separated from him and his subsequent fate is unknown.
Captain Watson, of the Glooscap, said him and his subsequent fate is unknown.

Captain Watson, of the Glooscap, said that his vessel was lying in the bay while all the exciting scenes on shore were being enacted by the contending forces. He thinks that a much greater area of the city must have been burned over than has been reported.

The refugees who evacuated the city sought shelter on the various ships in the harbor. Those who came to the Glooscap are a bright and intelligent looking lot. Their fear of a return to the devastated town was so great that Captain. Watson shipped them as saliors. They have since performed their duties in a very satisfactory manner.

A summer resort growing substantially in popularity is Loch Lynn Heights, divided from Mountain Lake Park only by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad track divided from Mountain Lake Park only by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad track and sentiment. Loch Lynn Heights was projected by Major J. C. Alderson five years ago this summer, and the project was opposed to a considerable extent at first by people interested in the sister resort, but this feeling has decreased almost to a minus quantity, since there is no real opposition between them. Loch Lynn catered to a more liberal range of amusements than Mountain Lake, hence its clientele differs in some respects. For instance, dancing is not permitted within the confines of the latter resort, and its "Puritainical regulations." as those not in love with the place were wont to term lits rules, were not congenial to society people fond of this social diversion, while they did like to go into raptures over the natural delights and recreative forces.

So when Loch Lynn Heights was launched it filled an expressed yearning. Its hotel is the mecca for fashion and talent from many states, and is becoming to be known as an ideal spot for rest and enjoyment. The company originally laying out Loch Lynn into lots met with many vicissitudes, but the storm has been weathered. The hard times following its birth are gone, and the future is particularly glowing. Major Alderson's wife, since deceased, named the streets planned for the place. named the streets planned for the place. Indian names governing on the streets running one way and Scotch names on the Intersecting avenues. Loch Lynn occupies a superior natural location, as to elevation and view of the surrounding mountain scenery than Mountain Lake Park, and many Wheeling people summer there in cottages or at its fine hotel. The one station does for both resorts, but no trains stop on Sunday, owing to Mountain Lake's previous agreement, and visitors are forced to get off at Oakiand, over a mile away. A separate station for boch Lynn, which would provide for Sunday trains, has been agitated.

New Bohemian," whose existence was as long as so many similar publications. Like its predecessors and followers, "The New Bohemian" was issued to fill a long felt want. Unfortunately for its publishers, the want didn't want to be filled. Its pages teemed with prose and poetry of a high order, one poem of particular merit, on the Maud Muller treatment. containing the phrase, "No woman ever married her heart's ideal."

The thought in these lines is not happropriate in introducing an experience of one of Wheeling's esteemed ministers, who is a great lover of music. His soul welled out in melody, that is, it beat in unison when some fair hand beat the band. No girl, however beautiful, no matter how entertaining, had the entrancing charms for him possessed by the young lady able to manipulate the piano, the guitar, violin, or any old musical instrument. He could not content himself in feeding on mere peachy cheeks, ruby lips and violet eyes. Give him music or give him death, "Why," he explains, "I couldn't get interested in a girl unable to play music of some kind. At college and after I left it I courted the girls that were musicians. And my ideal for a wife was she who could make music, and none but she. "But to show you how the ideals go," says the divine, "I happened to meet one girl. She's my wife. And would you believe it, she doesn't know "Yankee Doodle' from 'Old Hundred."

Some of the auditors noticed that the aged preacher was bending forward and apparently tottering, and the next instant he had swooned in the arms of one of the men on the platform, who caught him as he fell. Such remedies as could be immediately reached were applied, and for some time his condition was regarded with great uneasiness.

The stricken chaplain was, after he recovered somewhat, taken to the Lindell hotel, and his attendants say that he is resting nicely and recovering. BELLEFONTAINE, O., August 4.-Mrs. Lucita O. Cole, now living in Ha-gerstown, Md., wants a legal separation from her husband, a farmer's as-sistant in this county, and she makes an extraordinary complaint. She says her husband is known as "the man who her husband is known as "the man who grina" and alleges that when he gives way to mirth his fadal distortions are frightful and fiendish to witness. The mouth, she says, sildes from ear to ear, his skin wrinkles, and his eyes are turned up, the eyeballs rolling in a grotesque manner. His appearance on these occasions, she says, is so repulsive that she fears for her life. If the wife's description be true, Cole must look like the hero of Victor Hugo's famous romance, "The Man Who Laughs."
